TRUMAN SIGNS BILL TO AID GREEKS, TURKS

Calls New Law "Proof" of America's Earnest Desire for Peace.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 22 — President Truman signed into law today the $400,000,000 program to shore up Greece and Turkey against Communism and called it "proof" of this nation's earnest desire for peace.

The Chief Executive's action on the No. 1 foreign policy measure in a ceremony at Kansas City placed a $350,000,000 foreign relief bill next for his signature. This will provide food and succor for the liberated peoples in Trieste, Italy, Greece, Hungary, Austria, Poland and China.

Off to a flying start on Capitol Hill is still another foreign policy measure. It would give the administration authority to continue telling the peoples of other lands about this country through an information service which would preserve the radio "Voice of America."

"Proof of Peace"

In signing the Greek-Turkish aid measure, Mr. Truman declared that the assistance of the two countries "is evidence not only that we pledge our support to the United Nations but that we'd act to support it." He said the bill's "overwhelming" passage "is proof that the United States earnestly desires peace and is willing to make a vigorous effort to create conditions of peace."

Newly and unanimously approved by the house foreign affairs committee is a measure to permit the state department to continue to operate an information and educational program in foreign countries.

Committee approval of that measure came little more than an hour after congress completed action on the $350,000,000 relief program by accepting a joint committee's recommendations broadening terms of the bill as it passed the house.

Routine Formality

Senate action was only a routine formality.

But in the house final acceptance came only after a last ditch attempt to stick by the chamber's original $200,000,000 ceiling for the program. That effort was beaten, 205 to 170, and the house went on to okay the bill as drafted, 288 to 86. But the action came too late for the bill to be flown to Kansas City along with the Greek-Turkish aid measure.

FBI Officers, City Police Seize Eleven in Raid Here

5 Rail Unions Begin Parleys

Procedure Expected To Delay Strike Showdown for 6 Months.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 22—Five big unions prepared today to bargain out their demands on the railroads under procedure which will delay any strike showdown for perhaps six months.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, told reporters:

1. The railroad labor organizations feel they have a legal right to call a "quickie" strike any time after Sunday—but do not plan to do anything of the sort.

2. He believes his union and four others allied with it will agree to "start from scratch" under the time-consuming railway labor act in their new negotiations for changes in 44 working rules.

3. He thinks this should result in "a settlement or a breakdown of negotiations by Nov. 1."

Whitney's statement at a combined dinner and news conference last night jibed with the stand of Alvanley Johnston, who said the same thing in Cleveland regarding his Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Twenty other rail unions will follow these legal procedures as a matter of course.

There had been some doubt in the case of the trainmen and engineers, growing out of their 48-hour strike a year ago this week.

At that time the two unions had gone through all the steps required under the law, had taken strike votes, and gone on strike May 23.

The strike was broken by President Truman when he threatened to use the army to enforce his terms which were: a pay raise of 18½ cents an hour, but no changes in working rules for one year.

The year ends Sunday, May 25. The trainmen and engineers have never cancelled the strike votes, and they took the position that when the year was up, they had a right to pick up where they left off.

ARREST WHITE SLAVE SUSPECT

Woman Under Indictment in Wheeling, W. Va., Caught in Kenton Ave. House.

Connie Wilson, alias Judy O'Dare, 25, sought by federal officers on a white slave charge was one of 11 persons arrested here early today in a raid by FBI officers and city police on a house at 689 Kenton avenue.

FBI representatives said today she was under indictment in federal court in Wheeling, W. Va., under the white slave traffic act, charged specifically with "inducing a girl to go from Wheeling to Kenton, O., to engage in prostitution."

She is being held in Marion county jail until a deputy U. S. marshal arrives from Toledo to take her into custody. At the marshal's office in Toledo this morning it was said she would be taken there for appearance before a U. S. commissioner and then would be transferred to Wheeling to face the indictment in federal court.

3 FBI Men in Raid

Three FBI representatives and city police made the raid at 12:34 a. m. today.

Seven occupants of the house and four visitors were arrested. The four men visitors appeared in municipal court this morning on charges of disorderly conduct and each drew a fine of $25 and costs.

Also arrested were Mrs. Grace M. Pollock, 52; her husband, Edwin H. Pollock, 44; Nickie Sanders, 26; Jerry Pace, 26; Joyce Collins, 30; Frances Martin, 29. All gave their addresses as 689 Kenton avenue when booked in police headquarters after the raid.

The city directory lists 689 Kenton avenue as the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Pollock.

Addresses of Visitors

Two of the visitors gave their addresses as Delaware, one from Sycamore and the other from Marion. Their ages range from 23 to 47.

Charges against those listed as occupants were being prepared this afternoon by Police Prosecutor John W. Walters. He said they would be filed tomorrow.

GALION STORM HITS QUICKLY

Street Repair Crew Sees Wind Bring Damage in Sudden Hard Blow.

Special to The Star

GALION, May 22—"It looked like a show put on especially for me," Street Supt. W. A. Frank declared about the wind storm which struck Galion at 10:45 a. m. Wednesday. Ironically, Frank and a crew of workers who had been in the western part of the city met the storm on Harding Way West where it struck the hardest. As he pulled up to the curb in front of the Deaton apartment, three large maple trees were uprooted in front of him while he watched. "It was an odd sight," he said, "the trees just seemed to lie down easily."

One of the three uprooted trees fell across the hood and radiator of a car owned by Mrs. C. J. Griebling, which was parked in front of the Griebling residence The others fell in front of the J. F. Bemiller and Mrs. D. J. Whittridge homes. Sidewalks were broken and standing on end where the big roots of the trees came out of the ground.

Crew of 25 at Work

Supt. Frank and a crew of 25 men went into action immediately, and were able to clear the streets of West Church and Harding Way West by 4 p. m., for traffic. They worked the remainder of the day with saws, axes trucks, and a large Galion Iron Works power grader to clean up the streets. Frank said they would be lucky to have the entire section of town, which was blasted by the storm, cleaned up by late today. Most of the debris was hauled to a vacant lot at the old water works on West Church street as a temporary place to get it out of the way.

Striking first at the former Arson Christman residence on the South State road where two fruit trees and a pine tree were blown over, the storm followed a belt a little over a block wide and about a mile and a half long through the city, from southwest to northeast sections, ending on Sherman street.

Scene of the most destruction was probably the Galion Senior high campus where three large shade trees torn by their roots from the ground fell across the campus to the northeast. Trees and limbs blocked traffic for a time on Harding Way West, West Church, Sherman, South Boston, Cherry streets and North Liberty at Payne avenue.

Garage Demolished

A large tree in front of the James Barton residence on East Church street, fell and blocked the front portion of the house. At 413 Harding Way West, a one-car frame garage was razed and scattered over the surrounding area. No car was in the garage.

At the Galion Motor Sales on South Columbus street, a new awning was twisted around the metal supports.

Many of the old shade trees which were felled by the heavy wind had stood for scores of years. Damage will probably amount to more than $10,000, some citizens contended.

The wind and torrential rain which accompanied it, lasted only about three minutes, city officials said.

House Committee O.K.'s Plan For Ohio Super-Highway Work

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 22—A senate-passed measure to permit private construction of super-roads across Ohio like the famed Pennsylvania turnpike bore the house highway committee's stamp of approval today.

The 23-member group recommended passage of the bill by a vote of 19 to 1 after its sponsor, Sen. Ralph W. Winter (R-Medina), loosed a blast at what he termed "special interests" seeking to ditch it.

Winter said he referred to opponents of the proposal who spoke against it at previous committee hearings.

They were identified as John L. Marsh of Youngstown, lobbyist for the Petroleum Industry Committee of Ohio; Frank Kirby, representing the Ohio Association of Commercial Haulers,and Thomas McDonald of the public roads administration in Washington.

Winter explained that turnpikes would not cost the state "one cent" to build, would be paid for out of tolls collected only from users, and would be "given" to Ohio to become a part of its highway system when paid out.

Ready Next Week

Committee Chairman Harold V. Martz (R-Warren) said insertion of minor amendments in the proposal precluded its submission to the house at today's brief session of the legislature but that the bill would be ready when representatives returned next week.

The first section of the administration's $32,000,000 local government aid program cleared the senate yesterday with passage of a house-approved bill to allocate to counties the state $500,000—year share of cigaret dealers' license fees.

The house simultaneously approved $2.50-a-day state subsidies totaling $3,566,250 for care of county tuberculosis patients.

The senate taxation committee conferred with Gov. Thomas J. Herbert over bills to give counties $25,000,000 a year and permit cities to tax amusement admissions.

Grant Pay Increase

The senate passed and sent to the house a bill by Sen. Ralph W. Winter (R-Medina) to grant pay increases to county treasurers starting four-year terms in 1949.

Treasuries in Cuyahoga, Franklin, Hamilton, Lucas, Mahoning, Montgomery, Summit and Stark counties would receive top salaries of $7,200 annually, while others would be based on county population.

Other bills passed by the state would authorize the state director of education to draft a plan for merging township school districts into a maximum of four districts in each county, unless electors objected, and to require motorists to wait until school bus passengers reached points of safety on the side of the road where they live before passing stopped vehicles.

Addition of a fourth judge to Dayton's municipal court to handle traffic cases was approved by the senate and the house passed a bill to provide for pre-payment of transcripts of testimony in that court.

Cooperatives Tax Passed

The house completed passage of a bill to tax cooperatives such as the Farm Bureau on the same basis as corporations, and sent to the senate bills authorizing the governor to name eight of Wilberforce university's nine trustees, and to establish blood test standards for persons charged with drunken driving.

The latter proposal by Rep. Paul R. Barnes (R-Franklin) would make .15 per cent of alcohol by weight, as determined by test, prima facie evidence of intoxication. The bill passed 90 to 21.

Returned to the senate highways committee for consideration of floor amendment was a proposal to authorize the state highway director to spend up to $100,000 annually on roads in metropolitan park districts.

Sen. David McFerguson (R-Guernsey) introduced a bill to grant pay raises to all state employes receiving up to $4,000 annually for the period between Jan. 1, 1947, and Dec. 31, 1948 to compensate for rising living costs.

Increases Graduated

Based on last Jan. 1 salaries, the proposal would provide boosts of 20 per cent for those whose salaries on Jan. 1 were under $1,500 a year; 15 per cent between $1,500 and $2,000; 12½ per cent between $2,000 and $2,500; 10 per cent between $2,500 and $3,000 and 5 per cent between $3,000 and $4,000.

A $10,000,000 appropriation was called for to pay the salary increases.

Other senate-introduced bills proposed a $1 monthly tax on automobile house trailers parked longer than 30 days in one location; withholding of school foundation funds from districts denying equal privilege to pupils between 6 and 21 years of age, and authorizing boards of education to form pools for purchase of federal surplus supplies.

A house resolution asked the legislature to designate as the official state song, "Hail, Hail, Ohio," by Charlotte P. Thompson of Jewett, Harrison county.

A state-operated home for aged ladies was proposed [illegible] Rep. James E. Jones (D-Cuyahoga), in a resolution asked by the Cuyahoga county council.

MANY VACCINATIONS REPORTED IN COUNTY

Case of Smallpox Results in Rush for Physicians.

Discovery of a case of smallpox in the county has prompted Marion residents to visit local physicians for vaccination a check this morning revealed. One physician's office reported 30 persons had requested vaccination in the last two days. Many inquiries came from young people, it was reported.

In general there has been little difficulty in physicians securing enough "points" of the vaccine to care for all those who came to be vaccinated although a run on the supply held in stock by Marion druggists caused a temporary shortage Monday afternoon, it was reported.

Vaccinations were given at Claridon and Morral Wednesday.

Vaccinations in the county will be continued Monday, Dr. N. Sifritt, county health commissioner said. Prospect residents may be vaccinated tomorrow at the offices of Dr. R. T. Gray or Dr. John T. Boxwell, the health office has announced.

5 KILLED, 2 HURT IN DAYTON PLANE CRASH

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., May 22—Five persons were killed and two others were injured today when a four-engined Army transport plane from Wright field crashed and exploded in a field about four miles east of Dayton.

Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of relatives.

A witness said the plane appeared to be in trouble as it swooped low. Seconds later, the plane tilted on its side and plowed into a ditch, then hurtled into a wheat stubble field.

An explosion turned the plane into a mass of flames.

Wright field officials said the plane, [illegible] was [illegible] flight.

MACPHAIL FINES SIX YANKEE BALLPLAYERS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 22—President Larry MacPhail of the New York Yankees has slapped fines ranging from $100 to $25 on a half-dozen of his players, including Joe DiMaggio, for their refusal to participate in promotional activities.

DiMaggio drew the heaviest fine, $100 for refusing to have his picture taken for promotional purposes during the recent series against Cleveland here.

Charley Keller, Johnny Lindell and Aaron Robinson each was assessed $50, while rookie pitcher Don Johnson and another unnamed Yankee each had $25 subtracted from his pay.

Keller and Robinson, like DiMaggio, were understood to have refused to have their pictures taken, while Lindell was penalized for having suggested to younger players that they not attend evening banquets when asked to do so by the Yankee management. Johnson and the unnamed player were penalized for having heeded Lindell's advice.

Manager Bucky Harris said that "the fellows just didn't realize that there is a clause in their contract binding them to take part in promotion plans."

MacPhail and other Yankee officials said "no comment."

MAY EXPLAINS ARMY ACTIONS

Sought Commission for Banker Because Mrs. Roosevelt Backed Him.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 22 — Ex-Congressman Andrew J. May testified today he tried to speed action on a wartime Army commission for a New York investment broker after he had been informed that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was one of the banker's sponsors.

The former house military committee chairman told a federal jury that the banker, Harvey L. Schwam, was introduced to him at a Washington hotel by munitions maker Murray Garsson. The latter and his brother, Henry Garsson, are on trial with May on war fraud charges.

"I asked him (Schwam) who sponsored his application for a commission," May related.

"He said it was originally taken up by Mrs. Roosevelt and Maj. Gen. Watson."

Maj. Gen. Edwin (Pa) Watson was the late President Roosevelt's military aide.

"I told Schwam 'All right, I'll call Secretary Patterson and see about it.'"

May said he immediately arranged a conference for Schwam with Robert Patterson, then under secretary of war.

"Later," May continued, "Schwam told me he would have to take off 40 pounds to get his commission in the Army finance department."

May is accused of taking $55,000 in bribes to help the Garssons on wartime munitions contracts and in other ways.

He flatly contradicted today previous testimony by a former Army ordnance colonel, Henry B. Sheets of Buffalo, N. Y., that May had urged "a nice big contract" for the Garssons.

"I never said anything at all to him about contracts," May declared.

He also told the jury [illegible] a desire to see "[illegible]" and prompted him to appeal to [illegible] Dwight D. Eisenhower [illegible] to [illegible] in [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

28 Acquitted Of Lynching

Unprecedented Mass Murder Trial Ends in Freedom for Accused.

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 22—Twenty-eight white men were acquitted at their mass murder trial last night of charges that they lynched a 23-year-old Negro.

The verdicts were returned last night in Greenville county's stifling courtroom after a nine-day trial unprecedented in southern history. The state had demanded conviction—but not death—against the alleged murderers of Willie Earle, who was taken from Pickens county jail before dawn Feb. 17 and lynched in reprisal for the stabbing of a white taxi driver.

A county grand jury indicted 31 men for murder, conspiracy to commit murder, and of being accessories both before and after the fact. All were brought to trial in Greenville criminal court. Three won directed verdicts of acquittal.

In closing the state's case, Prosecutor Samuel Watt and Robert Ashmore appealed to the jury to act as the public conscience of South Carolina.

The jury, however, heeded the plea of defense counsel Thomas Vofford, who criticized northern "interference" and demanded acquittal to "show them it's no use meddling in Greenville county."

The defense offered no witnesses or testimony and no defendant took the stand. Referring to the alleged slabbing, of which the Negro was accused, defense attorney John B. Culbertson had shouted:

"Willie Earle is dead, and I wish more like him were dead."

Circuit Judge J. Robert Martin Jr., declined comment on the verdict. He withheld the customary thanks of the court when the jury ended the case.

"Gentlemen," he said, "you are free to go. The clerk has your checks and you may pick them up at your pleasure."

The jury had deliberated five hours and 15 minutes.

The last white man to die for an offense against a Negro in South Carolina was a plantation owner, sentenced in Newberry county by Judge John Belton O'Neal in 1848 for killing two slaves.

Employment in Local Plants Shows Slight Drop in 2 Months

According to records in the Marion office of the Ohio State Employment Service, the total employment figure of the 36 reporting industries dropped 95 workers from March 1 to May 1. In March, the total employment figure for the 36 industries was 8,056 workers and the present employment figure 7,961. Since September, 1946, employment showed an increase from month to month until March, 1947, when a slight decline in employment was first noted.

It seems to be the concensus of employers that the slight decline is largely seasonal—industries are finding that workers are either quitting or failing to report for work in order to take care of their agricultural activities. In many cases, these workers are not being replaced immediately because of the shortage of materials and employers feel that the workers will return to work when their seasonal agricultural activities have been taken care of.

The number of persons seeking employment through the Marion office of the Ohio State Employment Service continued to decline, falling one-sixth from April 1 to 30 on May 1. Almost all the decrease was among male applicants, with veterans accounting for one-half of the drop. Much of the decline was brought about by the resumption of seasonal employment—construction and agricultural—with the advent of spring weather.

Of the 411 men seeking employment 78 per cent were under 45 years of age; of the 146 women seeking employment 63 per cent were under 35 years of age. Of the 411 men seeking work, 29 per cent were semiskilled, 26 per cent unskilled or inexperienced, and 11 per cent were skilled workers.

The largest portion of the 146 women—nearly one-half — were semi-skilled, unskilled or inexperienced. Thirty-five females had clerical or sales experience and 27 were service workers.

There were 77 men and 27 women under 21 years of age, but only 9 men and 3 women were under 18. About 100 of the total job seekers (58 veterans) possessed physical limitations.

The average number of weekly benefit recipients in Marion totalled 187 during the month of April. This was a decline of 13 per cent from the number drawing benefits in March. Three times as many persons were claiming benefits in April, 1946.

Mrs. Lowell Berringer, home economics chairman, reported on a recent rummage sale, and an announcement was made that the Grange will observe Rural Life Sunday with a service Sunday at the hall. At the next meeting, May 28, the home economics committee will be in charge of the program and a cookie contest will be held.

SMITH CALLS FOR CUT IN U.S. SPENDING

Says Voters Demanded Economy Last November.

Special to The Star

WASHINGTON, May 22—Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion told the house when the state, justice, commerce, and judiciary appropriation was passed last week that he was sure "the voters in casting their ballots last November intended that congress should drastically reduce the burdensome overhead of the government, regardless of what might be required to accomplish this." And that if appropriating 6½ times more for 1948 than the average annual appropriation in the prewar years for state, justice and commerce departments reflected "the general thinking of the congress then the mandate given at the polls last November to reduce government costs is being outrageously ignored."

Mr. Smith said while a 163-million-dollar savings was being claimed on the President's 1948 budget request for these departments, it is a 27 million dollar increase over the actual 1947 appropriation for these same departments.

"The appropriation provided in the bill for the state department deserves special comment. Judging from the mess this department has helped to make of our international affairs the whole business ought to be liquidated and reconstituted by substituting quality for quantity. Yet this bill appropriates approximately 36 million dollars more for the department of state than it was given for the present fiscal year and about 11 times more than it received on an average annually from 1936 to 1930.

"The congress is pursuing an impossible policy — attempting to reduce operating costs while retaining the governmental functions that come into being during the war and several years prior thereto. If it is not actually adding to those functions. No more profound fallacy could be imagined. Costs can be reduced only by eliminating functions. Common sense tells us this."

NORTHWEST WHEAT INJURED BY DROUTH

By The Associated Press

SPOKANE, Wash., May 22—The wheat crop on hundreds of thousands of acres in the Pacific northwest reached a critical stage today as a result of a dry, early spring.

Grain dealers reported that while rains in the next few days could make fair to good crops, yields already had been cut on thousands of acres.

In many areas, they said every day without rain will mean a proportionate reduction in yields.

Hardest hit are the western part of Washington state's big bend country and north-central Oregon.

The weather bureau held some hopes for showers in the Washington-Idaho district in a few days but in Oregon no rain was in sight and high temperatures were expected.

In some parts of the big bend, grain dealers predicted that unless the weather changed suddenly for the better, the current drouth will mean a return to "normal" yields. In those areas, normally short on rainfall, crops of bumper size have been raised the last few years, taxing elevator facilities and forcing grain men to store millions of bushels of wheat in great mounds on the ground.

In some districts of Oregon and Washington, the wheat was heading out when little more than a foot high and the heads were dwarfed. Estimates of damage already done to the wheat crop on some marginal lands regardless of future rains, ranged up to 50 per cent.

Still in good condition was the rich Palouse area of the Washington-Idaho border and the Camas prairie of north-central Idaho, although rainfall was below normal.

The outflow of the Amazon river is 1,030,000 cubic feet per second.

Civil War Veterans Can Muster Only Platoon for May 30

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 22—The Grand Army of the Republic, its ranks thinned by the one enemy it has found invincible, will be able to muster little more than a platoon when the bugles blow May 30.

As of May 7, only 97 Civil war veterans remained on the veterans administration pension rolls. This is 58 less than last Memorial day, 143 less than the year before.

The government keeps no record of the men who fought on the other side of the war between the states. It was estimated, however, that less than 80 men of the former Confederate army survive.

The federal government pays monthly pensions ranging from $75 to $100 to the veterans who wore blue, but grants no benefits to the men of the gray who fought against the union flag.

The Ohio men on the pension rolls:

Oakley N. Bailey, 103, Alliance; John A. Bennett, 102, Waynesfield; Daniel Clingman, 100, Wauseon; John N. Crate, 101, Atwater; Frederick Pfister, 101, Cincinnati; Alvin Smith, 102, Youngstown; Bird B. Smith, 100, Columbus.

Male Brain Makes Sewing Easy To Missourian

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

JOPLIN, Mo., May 22—Everette Smart always held the theory a man could do anything a woman could do better.

A year ago he got the opportunity to prove his point. Shirts were expensive and one day, casually, he told his wife, whether she wouldn't mind if he tried her the sewing machine.

Hal Boyle

"Honey," she replied, "I'm too busy and too hard pressed." she replied.

"Humph h," snorted Smart, undaunted. "I could make a shirt on the sewing machine with my sleeve."

"I'd like to see you do it, and I'll leave the sewing machine on the floor," said friend wife.

The matter would have ended there except that at dinner that night Mrs. Smart announced to the family's daughters, Jean Ann, 14, and Mary Jane, 12: "Girls your father is going to make a shirt.

Male In Him Challenged

His ego offended, the essential male in him challenged, Smart solemnly announced, "I will make a shirt, too."

His excited daughters spread the word around and the neighborhood kids began dropping in to see if it were really true. Smart had to produce.

He was 42 years old and telegraph editor of the Joplin News Herald. He had written poetry and fiction and worked simultaneously on two novels. But he had never used a needle for anything but digging out a splinter.

"I got out my mother-in-law's sewing machine that had been gathering dust," he said. "Then I put the male reasoning mind to work. For two days I studied the book of instructions that come with sewing machines. That is something women never do. That is why few women ever learn to use all the attachments.

Studies Shirt Blue Print

"I bought a 20 cent shirt pattern and studied it as carefully as a contractor handed the architect's blue prints of the Empire State building. Then I went to work on the shirt. It took me two weeks to finish it.

"My daughter Jean Ann liked it and said, 'Daddy, I want you to make me a formal dress.'

"I cut a hole in a newspaper and put it over her head. I clipped the paper to the shape of the body and used it for a pattern. It worked fine. She was the belle of the ball and got lots of compliments."

Somewhat amazed at his own success, Smart really went to work on his spare time sewing. He began to create his own designs. He made suits for both his daughters, two more shirts for himself, coats for the girls and is now completing a suit for himself.

His fame spread.

Neighborhood women came to ask him just how he set in sleeves or fashioned shoulders. They had seen his sewing and wanted to learn how to do as well.

One husband came to him and complained, "You're causing trouble to the rest of us. My wife is telling me she married the wrong man."

Smart has himself become seriously interested in clothing designing.

"I still insist that a man is the best tailor," he said, "because he is more patient and practical."

He also thinks women act only on impulse. They get impatient and either rush through a job without doing it thoroughly or else they get discouraged and throw it aside unfinished. After all in the old days it was the men who painted pictures on the cave walls. The women were feeding the children by the fire.

Smart estimates his sewing has cut the family's clothing budget by two-thirds. His wife has become his stoutest advocate.

"She told me she would be glad to cut the lawn," he laughed, "if I would just keep on sewing. But with so much to do for the girls I haven't been able to make much for her.

"She's the orphan in the storm."

How do you feel at the end of a day? Is that old time pep and drive lacking? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Thousands now regaining glowing good looks and vitality through the release of vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a general run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that S.S.S. Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the S.S.S. Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1947

Events After April 7

RESTORATION of full operations at the end of the telephone workers' strike that began last April 7 is an anticlimax. The main issues of the strike were settled long before the strike itself was settled.

The telephone companies were not seized; government did not intervene. That was one big issue settled. The strike did not result in a new national union of communications workers. That was another issue settled. The unions involved did not win their argument for bargaining nationally with operating companies. That was another issue settled, perhaps the most important one.

Besides these things which were made clear by events after April 7, one more thing was revealed—somewhat unexpectedly. The American public, which has experienced every kind of strike in the book, learned that it can get along if necessary without full telephone service. What actually happened was that mechanization of most telephone systems filled in the service gaps so well that most users weren't inconvenienced at all, a fact with heavy bearing on the strategy of telephone unionists who had hoped to cause enough public inconvenience to cause a demand for government seizure and a settlement on their own terms.

Requiescat in Pace

THE spring clearance sales at Newburyport are over. The 10 per cent price-cutting program has been abandoned because merchants were not getting cooperation from suppliers.

Thus a plan conceived with the noblest of motives but without regard for human nature and the laws of economics quietly expires. The retailers said the program was too costly to continue and one reported a loss of $100. Merchants being merchants, however, it is unlikely that any courted bankruptcy by their experiment.

In Newburyport, as elsewhere, prices will be determined in a realistic manner. An article will be offered for $3.50 as long as it has a possible buyer at that price. If the highest bidder will go only to $3.49, that will be its price. Foo-foo powder, incantations and crusades won't work. What was it some bard said about life being real, life being earnest?

New Modes in War

LOOKING into the possibilities of bacteriological warfare, scientists find America vulnerable because of its very isolation, while European countries would be comparatively safe because disease could not be kept from spreading across boundary lines.

This is a new angle to confuse isolationists. First they held oceans were barriers. Then they conceded they were highways of approach but could be readily blocked. When air warfare came into the picture, they still relied on space as an important safety factor. Now they find that is cancelled.

Among the diseases adaptable to large-scale propagation are plague-type fevers; anthrax; botulism, which causes strangulation, and many variants of tick-borne typhus-like diseases. Not counted among the 33 bacteriological diseases are the ailments of malnutrition—tuberculosis, rickets, beri-beri, etc. They were concomitants of World War II and they have left a mark on postwar Europe which will not be erased for generations.

The prospect of bacteriological warfare is a dreadful one to contemplate, for it can lay low an entire people rather than only the residents of a target area. But it is the logical extension of scientific war. It is another incentive for mankind to compose its difference lest bacteria inherit the earth.

Touch-Me-Nots

NEWSPAPERMEN are grateful to Associate Justice William O. Douglas for his majority opinion favoring three Texas newspapermen appealing their conviction on a charge of contempt of court.

In one place, Justice Douglas wrote: "The law of contempt is not made for the protection of judges who may be sensitive to the winds of public opinion." Newspapermen get fed up and pretty frightened sometimes about touch-me-nots in public office who can't bear a little honest criticism. When judges misuse the power of their office to gag the press—as they try to do every so often—it's time to fly storm signals.

Justice Douglas wrote in another place: "Certainly a reporter could not be laid by the heels for contempt because he missed the essential point in a trial or failed to summarize the issues to accord with the views of the judge who sat in the case." Every account of a public proceeding must be written as seen through the eyes of an individual. The press is not infallible, but its mistakes are its own and are subject to judgment by anyone who can prove damage. While appreciating Justice Douglas' realistic reasoning in the court majority decision, the press reads with misgivings that three members of the court, including the chief justice, dissented.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Republican Labor Bill Generally Misunderstood.

WASHINGTON, May 22—Popular misconceptions of the terms of the two union reform bills have led to a wholly fictitious understanding of them. This extends throughout Washington, even to congress itself and certainly exists in certain mildly-informed business quarters. A certain senator lost not only a new hat and shirt, but an entire wardrobe, betting progressively with another senator after the bill was passed, as to whether the banning of the closed shop would reduce the unions to deep difficulties. Both senators were obviously oblivious of the truths of the matter including these:

1—The Railroad Brotherhoods have prospered into one of the nation's richest and most successful segments of union labor without the closed shop, or any similar form of employer preference for union members, or assistance to a union.

2—The closed shop is an obsolete form which not even the New Deal would espouse when it wrote the national labor relations act. It is still in effect in some old unions, but all the new large unions, grown up in the last decade, favor the union shop, or the maintenance of membership shop, which amounts to the same thing in the end.

3—This bill actually further legalizes and promotes the maintenance of membership and union shops which the modern unions like better. Instead of reducing unions to slavery, it has functioned so successfully they do not want it changed.

Green's Objections

AFL's Bill Green has been saying the reform bills were written by the National Association of Manufacturers and not (as the bills say) to "prescribe fair and equitable rules of conduct" for both unions and management. If NAM did, it certainly fell down on this key union shop and check-off provision far more than a truly objective authority, the Brookings Institute, working in the public interest, recommended as "a national labor policy" in a booklet by Harold Metz and Meyer Jacobstein. Brookings said all forms of union preference should be banned, not only the closed but also the union shop. "Such provisions tend to create a labor monopoly," said Brookings, pointing out the unions did not need these preferences anyway because they are already enthroned in actual control of the work. A closed shop requires an employer to hire only from union roles. A man must belong to the union before he can get a job. The union shop merely says the employer may hire whoever he chooses, but that person must join the union within 30 days or some similar time limit. The unions thus still control the jobs by monopoly even under this bill.

The railroad labor act absolutely forbade the checkoff also, Brookings pointed out. The check-off is just a device to make the employer collect union dues before giving the man his pay. As such it "actually tends to reduce the responsibility of union officials to their members." The unions can collect their own dues under this bill, which really strengthens their ability to do so.

Opportunity for Success

These objective conclusions suggest not only can the unions get along well under the new bill, but perhaps better than well. While the bills actually were written from the format of the railroad labor law (rather than NAM) they are weaker than that law in allowing a union shop, and also weaker in allowing the check-off, if the union man agrees to dues deductions from his pay in writing.

Yet such a cloud had been drawn over this situation, one ill-informed business man typically lamented the other day that the Republicans had made their law so strong. He thought this was the reason for the decline of the stock market, because marketeers had not expected such strong legislation. Actually the bills do not approach the reasonable prospects for the legislation which were forecast authentically in this column as far back as last December predicting the rail labor act basis for the new law.

However, even the best informed top Republicans are worried about the extent of the misconceptions and their apparent inability to cope with same. Actually they are afraid Mr. Truman will veto the legislation on the basis of very good inside reports (see this column published May 15,) and are moderating the legislation further in conference so as to make this more difficult.

Veto Doubtful

Mr. Truman cannot block this legislation by a veto. He must, in addition, change at least 4 of the 66 or 7 doubtful Democratic senators who voted for the senate bill and gave it more than a two-thirds majority. If these votes are switched against the bill, the issue then will be Mr. Truman plus 4 to 7 Democratic senators thwarting the decision of practically two-thirds of both houses of congress favoring a bill milder than the railroad labor law which has been on the statute books for more than 20 years.

If there is anything approximating objective public opinion left in this country, the Republicans might encourage Mr. Truman to veto the legislation and present the issue this way.

A Fifth Freedom

Needed—of Laughter

A Rhode Island resident, recently fined for laughing, is to be given a rehearing today.

They're probably trying to find out, with the world in the shape it is, just what it is he finds so funny.

For laughter is a rapidly disappearing phenomenon, a quaint and outgrown habit in which our ancestors were wont to engage. The present generation knows laughter only as the strange device on the placard which the announcer holds up every few minutes on radio's so-called comedy programs.

Increasingly, incidentally, radio "comedians" are being replaced by quiz shows. Moreover, "comic" strips are going in for suspense and heart-throbs. Even congress is taking itself seriously. In fact, women's hats are about the only remaining sure-fire giggle-getter.

You hear a lot about the five senses, but nothing about the lost one . . . . that of humor.

Has the funny bone become a vestigial anachronism . . . , even as man's appendix?

The Crisis in Germany

By RAYMOND MOLEY

WE ARE now well into the critical season in Germany's year. From the middle of spring until late July, Germany has always lived on reserves. Now, of course, the crisis is greater, and the sober fact is that starvation is near. Rations have dropped from an inadequate 1,550 calories a day to a dangerous 900.

There is blame enough for everyone concerned in the situation, but each is attempting to evade his share. The British blame the Germans for failing in their deliveries of Ruhr coal and of Bavarian food. German authorities say the state of the currency is so bad that farmers refuse to give food for money. Both blame the United States because our promises have not been met.

A part of the cause for our failure is the diversion of food, originally intended for Germany, to Italy and France. Our reason for that is genuine concern about those countries—a concern which is, to a degree, responsible for Wall Street's recent jitters. But the Army hopes to move 60,000,000 bushels of wheat into Germany by July. And after that, the European harvest will help.

Currency Troubles

The German complaint about their currency is well founded. There has been no real currency reform, and it is taken for granted that the present note circulation will be canceled. Hence, there is a plentiful supply of money for the black market and a constant threat of inflation. Bavarian farmers are trading food for cigarets, soap, clothing — anything but money.

This situation could be remedied by joint British-American action in short order. After the famous German inflation of the 20's, the new rentemarck was created and things were stabilized in two months. Some of the German experts who achieved that reform are still living and available. A similar constructive measure should not be delayed further.

But real economic reconstruction in Germany is delayed by differences between the British and the Americans and between the various sections of Germany itself. The British - American merger has developed a tangle of administrative authority. The joint military government has two representatives — British and American—in every office. There are also German executive committees for the two zones. And there are authorities for each of the states.

Conflicting Theories

Here enters the eternal problem of merging two theories of government. The British and some of the Germans are accustomed to centralized government, with great authority radiating from a capital. The Americans are, in the American sense, constitutionalists. They believe in a strict compartmentalization of power—a division between federal and state authority. Some Germans, notably in Bavaria, follow the school of Bismarck, who preserved state power within a larger Reich. These Germans are close to Americans in their ideas about administration.

Serious divisions of responsibility react on economic questions. On one side is the urge to plan for both zones; on the other are strict reservations in favor of state planning.

Much has been said of the difficulty of merging Russians ideas with those of the West. But the West itself is divided. And Germans wait, with hunger growing and stagnation hovering in the future.

Sponsor for 'Voice of America'

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE best thing, it seems to me, that congress could do about the "Voice of America" is to void the money for the coming fiscal year on an understanding that the whole subject will be re-examined in the next few months.

It is too late in this session of congress to study this exceedingly tricky subject enough to justify any kind of permanent legislation. There is time only for a stopgap appropriation which will carry on the present operation while there is a thorough reconsideration of the problem.

It should be possible in the next few months to call together men of experience who could advise the administration and congress on the purpose, scope, planning, and administration of the thing.

There is no use arguing that an official propaganda machine in time of peace is not an abnormal undertaking for this government, or that because we are misrepresented abroad by foreign propaganda machines, it necessarily follows that we can best fight fire with fire, and must set up an official propaganda machine of our own.

So, while I think it would be a bad mistake to dismantle the organization which Assistant Secretary of State Benton operates, I think it would be at least as great a mistake to vote the money and then to treat the problem as solved and decided.

Wrong Location

Among the many things which need to be restudied is whether the agency which operates all these activities ought to be in the department of state. I for one do not think it should be, and it seems to me a bad arrangement to have an assistant secretary of state responsible for the export of news and culture and entertainment.

It is bad for the state department and it is bad for the program. The assistant secretary of state cannot know what is being sent out. He cannot read all the scripts even in English. What they sound like in Russian, French, Chinese and Arabic he will never know, especially since in broadcasting the effect so often depends on the accent, the inflections, the emphasis, and the phrasing of the broadcaster. Yet everything sent out carries with it the imprimatur of the department which reflects the foreign policy of the United States.

Only Secretary Marshall, and a very few spokesmen directly and intimately associated with him, should speak to the world for the Department of State. To let hundreds of people write, translate, and broadcast news and opinions in the name of the Department of State can lead only to perpetual misunderstanding and endless confusion.

The agency should be put somewhere else—say in the Department of Commerce, or in the Federal Communications Commission. For while it is an instrument of foreign policy, it is by no means the only, or even the most important, instrument.

There is no more reason why it should be in the department of state than that the army and navy, or the treasury, or the Export-Import Bank, or the department of agriculture should be in the department of state. For they too are all in varying degrees instruments of foreign policy. But since they are not in the department of state, not every statement by an admiral or a general or a treasury economist is treated here and abroad as a pronouncement of United States foreign policy.

Another Reason

There is another reason, it seems to me, for divorcing this operation from the state department. This agency exports information. The most important function of the State department in this field is to import information for the benefit of the American government, and to weigh it and to decide, not what a broadcaster should say, but what the president, the secretary of state, and the department should say and do, if the information indicates that something needs doing or saying.

I believe that having the propaganda machine inside the State department obscures this function. It is a sign of how the whole problem is misconceived that the assistant secretary of state in charge should play no part whatever in the formation of our foreign policy. Yet, as a matter of fact, only the man who makes policy can really "sell" it.

For that reason, the information service in the department of state ought to be set up to inform the department, not in order to inform the world; it should not be a selling or advertising agency but an intelligence service. It should be oriented inward and not outward, and its product should not be publicity but confidential guidance to the secretary and through him to the president, and to other departments, including the propaganda agency itself, and to our missions abroad.

These are only indications of how fundamentally the whole matter will take time, it will also take men, and most of them should not be men whose main experience is in publicity, advertising, public relations, or even in the dissemination of news—but rather in the reporting and the analysis and interpretion of foreign affairs, and in the formation of foreign policy and its administration.

Polish Orphans

WARSAW, Poland — Poland's ministry of education now is supervising 720 homes for war-orphaned children, supplying them with food and clothing and educational facilities. The country, as result of nearly six years of war and the long Nazi occupation, has an estimated 2,000,000 orphans or half-orphans.

Early oil production methods recovered only 20 per cent of the existing oil, but modern methods recover as much a 80 per cent.

The Twitchells Hear Some New Broadcast

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Twitchell were [illegible] before the radio. "See if you can get [illegible] 'Petrillo For A Day' program," suggested [illegible] "If not, try for the Dan Tobin Hit Parade."

"There's nothing like that on the air," [illegible] Mrs. Twitchell.

"Are you sure?" asked Elmer. "Labor is [illegible]ping up on radio programs everywhere. A fellow told me he found Murray's Alley very g[illegible] and that the Bill Green Hour wasn't bad either."

"I wouldn't know," said Mrs. Twitchell, "[illegible]less they give prizes on 'em."

"I don't think they are giving away anything but they may have to if they want to get a [illegible] radio audience," said Elmer.

"I'm for capital and for labor, too, but I wouldn't listen to either of 'em unless I could get a jackpot, an electric ice box or a string of simulated pearls," said the wife.

• • •

"I hear the American Federation of Labor is at work on a quiz feature and will give away ten thousand dollars worth of scalps and hides every night."

"Whose scalps and hides?" asked Mrs. Twitchell.

"The boss's," said Elmer. "I don't know what the CIO plans along this line, but they tell me it is framing up a radio hour that will feature a King For A Day motif."

"I read something about the International Ladies Garment Workers planning to spend $250,000 on a radio program," said the wife.

"They're planning a big hook-up," said Elmer. "I hear they will call it the Garment Center Can be So Beautiful Hour. A lot of new labor radio programs are in the works.....Breakfast In Detroit...News and Views With John Lewis....Hi-Ho, Reuther....and the Elevator Operators Double or Nothing Hour."

"What, no Mr. and Mrs. program!" exclaimed Mrs. Twitchell.

"John Lewis has offered to do a Mr. and Mrs. breakfast hour but he wants to play both parts," said Elmer.

"His voice is too heavy, isn't it?" asked the wife.

"Not since that Supreme Court decision," said Elmer.

• • •

"How long has this labor on the air thing been going on?" asked Mrs. Twitchell.

"It's all in the experimental stage more or less just now," said Elmer. "They're feeling around. Fredric March is doing an AFL radio skit called A Bell for Petrillo or something like that. It's a sort of soap opera. The idea is to sell the labor movement as you sell soap."

"Is the radio audience being asked to send in boxtops?" asked Mrs. Twitchell.

"No, that will come with the Employers' Hour now in the works, I understand. It's to be a Tom Mix formula. One of those terrific action things."

"Haven't the employers been getting action enough without going in for it on the air?" demanded Mrs. Twitchell.

"That's what I was wondering," admitted Elmer.

Mr. Menjou says he would be the Paul Revere of the picture colony in arousing America to the danger from Communistic propaganda in films. The trouble is that it would be so hard for him to get a horse for that purpose in Hollywood. Every horse that is any good is all tied up with a new picture.

Big Game

By TRUMAN TWILL

In stalking a rentable house, the hunter is well-advised to walk quietly and keep his eyes open for tell-tale signs.

Note the automobile with the doctor in it. Could that mean something? Maybe the doctor is going to see a patient. He is in a hurry. Aha, perhaps the patient is at death's door. There may be a vacancy. Get going, dope. This looks like a hot tip!

See the mortician's wagon. Does that turn on any lights in your thick head, Dinwoodie? A mortician's wagon means business. People do not ride about idly in such grim conveyances. Follow it, Dinwoodie, follow it as if your life depended on it. Strike while the body is warm. Will the house be for rent?

Be alert for men with brief cases and fat cigars. They may be lawyers getting ready to close an estate. Tag along after them. It won't cost anything. It might lead to something attractive in the way of eight-room houses with modern conveniences.

Is there a quarrel going on in the neighborhood. Creep up close. Careful, now, don't step on any dry twigs that might snap and disclose your presence. Ah, she says she is going home to mother. Or is mother going home? No matter, there's going to be a vacancy. Maybe the price will be right.

Watch that old lady with the big basket. It is too heavy for her. She is tired out. She is sitting down to rest on the running board of the automobile. Is it not a depressing sight? Better watch the poor old lady all the way home. Her health is obviously not good. There may be a vacancy soon.

Do not overlook the man overeating in the restaurant. If you ate that much at one meal it would kill you. Aha, it might kill him too. Get his name and address. Call him tomorrow to see if he's all right. It won't do any harm to call. A man who eats like that might be a renter.

Better not look now, but the lady getting out of the car in front of that bungalow looks disconsolate. Perhaps she would rather live somewhere else. Perhaps she is dreaming of a little Dutch Colonial on the edge of town, like the place Cousin Elmer thought he wanted, until his wife decided she wanted a Georgian brick inside the edge of some other town. Are you following this, Dinwoodie? All you have to do is find Cousin Elmer and his wife a Georgian brick inside the edge of some other town, persuade that disconsolate lady to move into Cousin Elmer's Dutch Colonial—and there you are, all fixed up in a nice General Grant leanto with hot and cold running chills and two bedrooms if you can figure how to put a bed in a clothes closet.

The thing to do when hunting rentable houses is to be sharp. Never go to—hay, mister, look out for the truck! Jeepers, it got him, poor devil. Quick, chum, what's your name and address and do you rent or own, and if you own what's your price and if you rent how about putting in a good word for me with the landlord, how about it, huh, how about it? Shucks, he passed out.

Hunts Cause Of Brightness

Theory Is Chief Cause of Success and Failure.

CHICAGO — A Northwestern University psychologist contends scientists have been all wrong about why some people are successes and others failures; why some children are brilliant and others backward.

It's not now, he said, psychologists give heredity or "good genes" all the credit for making children bright.

Prof. Robert H. Seashore believes such ideas are old-fashioned. "Aptitude" should be regarded as nothing more than a head start in acquiring certain skills, he said.

Seashore contends that it is possible to take a backward child and find out what's bothering him and make him just as alert as the bright boys at the head of the class.

Seashore was working on the problem when the war broke out and he turned to applying his talents to see whether Air Force candidates had the aptitudes for various flying jobs.

When his war job ended, he returned to his pet problem—the individual differences in human abilities, or what makes people tick, and tick differently.

For example, Prof. Seashore worked with a class of 30 good and bad singers and found that the one who never thought they could sing could be trained to do as well as the best.

"Some of them had never tried to carry a tune, others had tried but been derided and therefore had no confidence, still others had emotional problems, and a great many just didn't know how easy it was to sing," he said.

The same thing, he added, is true of poor readers. When their problems were analyzed, it was found that they were not lacking in mentality — they just had't learned to read properly.

"One of the greatest mistakes of modern education is to take the medium level of achievement in a class of students and stick to it," he says. "Modern education must become an individual matter, so that each students gains confidence through working at his own level and making his own progress."

GALION, May 22—Immediate treatment to injuries suffered by city fireman Leo Fabian at American Steel Abrasives Co., where he works on his days off, may result in the saving of the toes on his left foot.

He was engaged in unloading coke yesterday when a steel door fell on his foot, very nearly severing the toes. The accident occurred at about 4:30 p. m. He was quickly attended by Dr. John Kidd, who sewed the toes back on, and the doctor is hopeful that he will not lose them.

Dr. Kidd was an Army physician during the war.

Marion Power Shovel Co. To Be Featured on Radio Program

Frank Seidel, writer for the staff of "The Ohio Story," a 15-minute program broadcast three times a week over a special Ohio network, was in Marion Monday gathering material for a script on the Marion Power Shovel Co. to be presented June 2.

The script will be a dramatic presentation of the part Marion firms have played in the development of natural resources since the early part of the century. The Marion Power Shovel Co., which was organized in 1884 as the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and was one of the first large producers in the United States, shovels were first used almost exclusively for railroad construction but later development led to their use in the varied jobs in which Marion shovels can be found working around the world today.

Marion shovels were used in construction work on the Panama canal. In recent years the company turned from steam with development of more modern methods of generating power for the shovels, and in line with progress in production the company name was also changed. The largest power shovel bucket ever produced was constructed by the company.

Programs of "The Ohio Story" can be heard by listeners in this area over WBNS in Columbus at 6:30 p. m. and through WTAM in Cleveland at 10:15 p. m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Robert Waldrop, narrator, is supported by a cast of actors who present a scene from Ohio life or history on each program.

Mickey Rooney Charged With Settlement Fraud

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, May 22—Actor Mickey Rooney, 26, one of filmdom's highest paid actors, has been sued for separate maintenance by the former Betty Jane Rase, mother of his two sons, and who, at 17, won the beauty contest title of "Miss Birmingham," Ala., of 1944.

She alleged the actor, who was divorced in 1943 from actress Ava Gardner after 18 months of marriage, used fraud in obtaining a property settlement with her, representing his annual salary as $36,000 whereas it actually is approximately $250,000.

300 Offer Skin Grafts To Burned Pacific Vet

By The Associated Press

OLYMPIA, Wash., May 22 — From offices, pool rooms, lodge halls, factories and homes came volunteers numbering more than 300 today to offer their skin that a veteran of three and a half years in the South Pacific might live.

Eldon Clark, 25, of nearby Little Rock, was burned critically last Thursday in an explosion in his garage. He was taken to the Madigan General hospital at Fort Lewis. Specialists said he had a chance to live if new skin could be provided.

This word sent his friends and family into action seeking volunteers. Theaters at their request put requests for skin donors on their screen. John L. Salvenburg, state director of veterans rehabilitation sent this appeal to veterans:

"Here's a real opportunity for the veterans to help a buddy."

The response was terrific. At last report the volunteers numbered well over 300.

B-29'S TAB WEATHER ON 2,400-MILE RUN

By The United Press

FAIRFIELD, Cal.—"Operations Stork"—the AAF's way of designating the 59th (very long range) Reconnaissance Squadron's job of storm hunting—is hard and dangerous work.

Every day one of the squadron's B-29's polices a 2,400-mile beat from the Fairfield-Suisun army air base to Anchorage, Alaska. For 1,260 of the miles, the west coast's only active air weather recording team flies just 500 feet above the Pacific.

The plane leaves the Fairfield base at 3 a. m. every other day and takes about 12 hours to make the run. After about six hours of skimming the ocean surface it ascends to 10,000 feet, taking weather readings as it passes each 1,000 foot mark.

The trip is completed at this altitude while crew members study cloud coverage approaching storm fronts, icing conditions, high altitude wind direction, velocity and turbulence. Every hour, temperature, dew point and humidity findings are radioed to weather stations in this country and Alaska.

The following morning a second plane with a fresh crew takes off from Anchorage on the reverse run. Observations on this leg are taken at exactly the same spots as the day before, leaving no growing storm to its own resources for long.

Crew members included on these grueling flights are a pilot, co-pilot, navigator, weather forecaster, radar observer, radio operator, left and right scanners and a crew chief. Emergency equipment carried by each crew member includes a life jacket, survival suit, arctic jacket, a parachute and a one man dinghy.

Although the 59th was only activated a year ago, it has already proved itself of tremendous value in accurate, scientific weather prognostication.

Western Union Seeks Repeal of Wire Tax

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 22—The Western Union Telegraph Company asked congress today to repeal the 25 per cent excise tax on telegrams, terming the levy "a competitive yoke which the telegraph service cannot continue to bear."

John L. Egan, Western Union president, told the house ways and means committee the company in 1946 had "the most difficult year in its 90-year history."

Describing elimination of the tax as "critically urgent," Egan said Western Union showed a 1946 loss of $11,000,000, "of which about $2,100,000 represented loss from the strike called by the American communications Association (CIO) in the New York City area."

PHONE UNION STUDIES BARRING OF WORKERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, May 22—Cleveland Local 23, Association of Communication Equipment Workers (independent) and the Western Electric Company, whose wage settlement Tuesday climaxed a six-week-long telephone strike, sat tight today awaiting developments after five ACEW members were barred from Ohio Bell Telephone Co. premises at Columbus and Lancaster when they attempted to return to work yesterday.

Richard C. Sines, Columbus representative of the Cleveland local, which bargained for central Ohio members during the strike, said that he and four others, including Robert L Kelly, employed at Lancaster, received notes yesterday that read

"You are not to be allowed to enter the premises of the Bell Telephone Company pending investigation by Western Electric"

The memoranda, Sines said, were signed by "J Gesner" whom he identified as Western Electric's district superintendent for the Cleveland area, embracing Columbus and Lancaster

Following a terse statement that the company had offered no other reason in barring the workers from the plant, Sines said that he had notified L R Walkup of Cleveland, chairman of Local 23, and U S Conciliator Hayward J Montoney of Columbus

Sines and Kelly with Charles R Saffell, Wade K Marsh and Howard V. Givens, the others barred from Columbus Bell premises spent the night at the ACEW office here awaiting new developments

Sines said he was advised by Walkup "to do nothing" until the union chairman could confer with national officials en route from Cleveland to Chicago No attempt was made to renew picketing

Says Demands for Cut In Prices Can't Be Met

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 22—Philip P. Page, vice president and general manager of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, said today that 'Washington demands" for lower consumer prices were impossible to meet in the face of rising costs coupled with declining productivity.

In an address before the Kiwanis club, he declared 'the public has been misled by Washington stories that prices will come down"

"The fact of the matter is' Page asserted, "that by abetting labor's drive for higher and higher wages, Washington has suddenly awakened to the fact that it has driven production costs up and up with the result that prices have risen steadily'

He said the public had been misled into believing that management "by some weird magic can wave a wand and lower prices arbitrarily."

Rain Brings Big Smell To Residents of Belle Center

By The Associated Press

BELLE CENTER O May 22—If this story smells, it will help you sympathize with the folks in the north end of this Logan county community of 800 persons

Last night a one-inch rain caused a break in a dike of a waste disposal pond of the Belle Center Creamery and Cheese Company

Before the company could bring in a bulldozer and repair the break, the waste flowed over three blocks, covered the high school athletic field and lay a foot deep in some yards and gardens.

It produced the awfullest stench in the memory of inhabitants

An area near the pumping station was affected, and county authorities today sent in W R Haines, a sanitarian, from Bellefontaine to ascertain if the health of residents were jeopardized.

When Ed's Crops Failed

Three years ago Ed Smith's luck went bad. His crops failed, and it wasn't long before Ed's home and furnishings were up for auction.

Half the town turned out, and Ed must have thought his neighbors were a bunch of hungry vultures—buying up all his precious possessions for a song.

When it was over, and the auctioneer had left, Sam Abernathy turns to the crowd and says: "All right, folks let's take time out for a glass of beer, and then put this stuff back where it belongs!"

Two hours later, Ed was in possession of his home and furnishings, and the folks who'd paid for them were sitting around Ed's—enjoying a neighborly glass of beer—to show their friendship and their confidence in Ed.

Today, Ed's back on his feet—another constructive member of the community. And from where I sit we've all been well repaid—a good investment in a good man.

People Looking for Quick Cure Easy Pickings for Busy Quacks

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, May 22 — Crooks and crackpots find easy pickings in citizens looking for a quick cure.

A government agency, the food and drug administration (FDA), is trying to stop them.

It can do this because there's a law against selling healing devices that pretend to work cures they can't work.

James Marlow

This week one of the FDA heads, Charles W. Crawford, an associate commissioner said:

"At present there is an epidemic of serious violations by unscrupulous adventurers in the business of selling cure-all therapeutic devices.

"During the past year or so we have had to deal with scores of contraptions of this kind."

"Cure-All" Light

These are some of the stories told the FDA headquarters here:

There was a man who built a fancy machine with a strong electric light inside.

The light came through different-colored glasses. The idea was this:

If you used the right color light at a certain time on a certain day you could get cured of diabetes, cancer, tuberculosis, and other diseases.

You couldn't buy the magic lamp. You had to join an "institute" for $90. Then you'd get the lamp "free."

Passes Out 90,000

The maker claimed he had distributed 9,000 such lamps. He was convicted in federal court, fined $8,000, and sentenced to three years in jail. He has appealed to a higher court.

A man sold two plates—one copper, one zinc—to put in your shoes.

Walking on them was supposed to set up an electric current which went through your body and cured your rheumatism.

They sold for $5 a set but cost only a few cents to make. The maker was fined $1,000 and given 6 months in jail.

Reducing Belts Out

FDA officials say they've had to knock off the market any number of reducing belts, rollers to roll off fat, and exercising devices which claimed to cure all kinds of diseases.

FDA has about 230 inspectors or investigators and about the same number of specialists, like chemists, doctors and so on.

They have offices in 16 cities. Most of their work is checking on the purity of foods and truthfulness in the labeling.

FDA brings about 3,000 food and drug cases into federal court a year and claims to win 95 per cent of them. FDA has been in existence 40 years.

Railway Workers To Benefit Under Insurance Plan

Approximately 130,000 railroad employes in the state of Ohio will be protected by a new sickness insurance system for railroad workers which will go into effect July 1, William Fisher of Columbus, field representative of the Railroad Retirement plan said here today. About $2,300,000 will be paid out in this area under the new plan which protects railroad workers suffering temporary disability from any illness or injury, no matter how or where it occurred. Amendments to the Railroad Unemployment insurance act passed by congress last July make the new plan possible. Cost of the new program will be borne by the railroads

To become eligible for payments an employe must have earned $150 or more in railroad employment in 1946, be unable to work for at least seven days of a 14 day period and mail an application and doctor's certificate to the board within 7 days after the first day he wishes to claim

The amount of benefits an employee may receive will vary from $1 75 to $5 a day depending on his 1946 earnings. The maximum that can be drawn in a year ranges from $227.50 to $650

Representatives from the Columbus office of the Railroad Retirement board are in Marion the first and third Wednesdays of each month, Mr. Fisher announced They may be contacted at the old Erie freight station on West Center street.

"Ring" Smuggling Reds Into America Alleged

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 22—Rep McDowell (R-Pa) said today a house un-American activities subcommittee has uncovered evidence that a "ring" is sneaking Communists from Mexico into the United States.

McDowell said the subcommittee also found "Communism deeply intrenched in Hollywood and the movies"

Just back from California, the Pennsylvanian told a reporter he returned by way of the Mexican border to check on "tips and leads" regarding the ring.

"There is absolutely no question that there is such a ring," he said.

Deadline Near For Cigaret Licenses

With Monday the deadline only 44 of a possible 314 cigaret sales licenses have been purchased by dealers in Marion county, Harry Mounts, county auditor, said today. While there is no penalty for not purchasing licenses on time, dealers may be fined if inspectors discover they are selling cigarets without a license after the deadline has passed, Mr. Mounts explained

Licenses may be purchased at the county auditor's office, which will be open all day Friday, until noon on Saturday and all day Monday, Mr. Mounts said. The final deadline is the close of business Monday.

Hit UNRRA "Pressuring" of Baltic Displaced Persons

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, May 22 — A resolution recommending resettlement of displaced persons in the United States was readied for adoption today as the two-day meeting of the Lutheran Welfare Conference in America entered final sessions.

Sponsored by Dr C E Krumbholz, executive secretary of the conference's welfare division, the proposal was supported last night during a banquet address by Rev C. F. Schaffnit of Detroit who returned last month after a period as religious adviser to 150,000 Baltic DPS living in Germany.

Schaffnit, who is executive secretary of Detroit's Lutheran charities, contended that the UNRRA was "pressuring" these DPS to return to their native countries by reducing their food supplies and by "repeated and often arbitrary and inhumane screenings which deprive them of their DP status

"Such a return," he declared, "means certain death or slave labor in Siberia or elsewhere."

Bonnie Baker, Misha Auer and Freddie Shaffer Orchestra Here.

Headlining the stage revue at the Palace theater today are Bonnie Baker, Mischa Auer and Freddie Shaffer and his girl orchestra.

Four performances were scheduled, including two tonight. On the screen is "That's My Gal," a musical picture starring Lynne Roberts and Donald Barry.

HIKE IN PASSENGER RAIL FARE GRANTED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 22—All railroads operating east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers have been authorized to boost their basic passenger fares approximately ten per cent on five days' notice to the public.

The interstate commerce commission late yesterday granted the eastern railroads' plea that they need additional revenues to meet increased operating costs.

The commission said the 60 lines which asked for the higher fares had a combined deficit of $54,000,000 from passenger train operations in 1946.

These are the authorized increases, which had been previously granted to the New Haven railroad in a separate, earlier proceeding:

One-way coach fares, boosted from 2.2 to 2.5 cents per mile.

One-way sleeping and parlor car fares, boosted from 3.3 to 3.5 cents per mile.

Round-trip rates in coaches, increased approximately 15 per cent.

Round-trip rates in pullmans, increased approximately 4 per cent.

The minimum price of a single, one-way ticket, upped from 10 to 15 cents.

The increases apply only to interstate travel, but state regulatory bodies are expected to make their intrastate fares match the interstate level.

VETERANS' NEWS AND INFORMATION

Prepared by The Public Relations Service, Veterans Administration, Branch Office No. 6, 52 E. Sterling street, Columbus, 8, Ohio. Phone Main 6261; Ext. 281.

VETERANS MAY REPAY GI LOANS BEFORE DUE DATE

Home, farm or business loans negotiated under guaranty provisions of the G. I. Bill may be repaid at any time before their due date without premium or fee, loan guaranty officials at the Veterans Branch Office in Columbus report.

Although a G. I. loan contract calls for amortization in specified monthly payments over a period of years, the law permits a veteran to repay the loan before its due date by increasing payments or by making a large cash payment at any time. Advance payment will result in substantial savings in interest, VA points out.

The duration of any G. I. loan depends upon terms of the contract between the veteran and the lending institution. The maximum limits for repayment are 25 years on a real estate loan, 40 years on a farm loan and 10 years on a non-real estate loan. However, the contract may call for repayment of the loan within a lesser period of years, depending on conditions and the lender's judgment. The loan must be repaid within the time limit specified in the loan agreement.

Repayments may be made without premium fee for all or any part of the indebtedness. Advance payments must not be less than the amount of one installment or $100, whichever is the lesser amount.

• • •

VETS SHOULD GET PRIOR SCHOOL LEAVE APPROVAL

Veterans enrolled in educational institutions or in on-job training programs should obtain advance approval from the Veterans Administration before taking leave of absence. When unauthorized leaves of absence are not satisfactorily explained, veterans may forfeit their subsistence allowance for the time they are out of school or away from training, VA officials said.

• • •

SCHOOL STUDIES OFFERED VETS IN VA HOSPITALS

World War II veterans, whose education was interrupted by war service and further delayed by hospitalization, are finding the Veterans Administration educational retraining program the answer to their scholastic problems.

The educational retraining program, instituted less than a year ago in the VA's Ohio-Michigan-Kentucky area, is operated by the VA medical service in cooperation with the American Council of Education and the local boards of education. Under this plan, veteran patients may use their rehabilitation period to establish eligibility for high school diplomas, or as much as 24 hours of recommended credit for college.

Approximately 200 high school diplomas have been issued to date to hospitalized veterans in the three states. Many more patients are being tutored in basic high school subjects, as well as college-level studies. In addition, special instruction courses are given in typing, shorthand, salesmanship and special instruction courses are given in typing, shorthand, salesmanship and vocational work.

• • •

ASK VETS TO NOTIFY VA OF CURRICULA CHANGES

Student veterans wishing to make a change in the course of study they have been pursuing under the G. I. Bill should make such a request in writing to the Veterans Administration.

If the student veteran has not been successful in his original training program, arrangements are made for him to meet with a VA vocational advisor to discusss the requested change and entrance into a new training program.

Should the vocational advisor feel that the veteran can proceed successfully in his newly-chosen field, a supplemental certificate of eligibility will be issued indicating the remaining amount of training at government expense to which the veteran is entitled.

Veterans contemplating changes in their course of study should contact their VA training officer.

• • •

VETS ASKED TO REPORT ADDRESS CHANGES TO VA

Veterans in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky who are in receipt of monetary benefits from the Veterans Administration were reminded today to report immediately any changes in address to the VA.

VA said this procedure is particularly important to the many veterans who will change addresses at the end of the current school quarter or semester. Failure to report change of address may result in an indefinite delay in subsistence or compensation payments, VA said.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. At what rate of interest may I borrow on my G. I. insurance policy?

A. After your converted G. I. insurance policy has been in force by payment of premiums for one year or longer, you may borrow an amount up to 94 per cent of the cash value. The interest charged you on your loan will be four per cent.

Q. My claim for disability compensation based on an ailment incurred while I was a prisoner of war has been disallowed. Now it is getting worse and I would like to know what I can do to get compensation?

A. VA will give special consideration to disability claims filed by veterans interned in enemy prison camps. You should get in touch with your nearest VA office and have your case reopened.

Q. I am going to school under the G. I. Bill but am dissatisfied with the school and would like to know if I can transfer to another college.

A. Yes. Under the regulations of VA you may change your school but you must have the approval of VA in advance.

Q. Can I make G. I. insurance premium payments on my policy at any VA office?

A. All VA offices except contact offices are authorized to receive premium payments on G. I. insurance.

Q. I have a G. I. loan on my home and would like to know if I can have the loan extended.

A. Yes, you can have the loan extended if the lender is willing to give you more time, but the extension must provide for complete payment of the loan within the 25-year maximum period allowed by law.

Q. What will happen if I do not make my loan payments?

A. That depends upon the terms of your loan, the attitude of the lender and the laws of the state, where the veteran and lender are located. If payments are not made when due, the loan is in default and the lender may take such action as is provided in the loan agreement and is permitted by the state law and by the regulations for guaranty and insurance of loans.

Bread, meat and wine are considered the basic necessities of life in many European countries.

FAMED CRISTIANI FAMILY COMING. Italy has produced many famous circus acts, but no troupe has ever met with greater favor in America than has the renowned Cristiani Family of bareback riding marvels, who, with Lucio, the features star and greatest of all clown comedians, have proven the most outstanding and talented equestrian display in all circus history.

They will be in Marion with the Cole Brothers circus next Monday for afternoon and night performances at the Drake showgrounds.

The big troupe—numbering 19 people, including the mother and father who travel with them—are really two Cristiani families combined. They are the most celebrated all-family troupe in the world and have been riding in foreign capitals for over four generations. They have long been famous as masters of the twisting and passing somersaults from horse to horse—feats no other bareback riders have ever been able to accomplish.

Lucio, the dean of riding comedians, has been a shining star for several seasons.

With more than 350 men and women arenic stars and performers including such spangle-land names as Hubert Castle, tight-wire star; the Great Davisos; the Del Muris, high-perch stars; the Flying Thrillers, aerialists; Hortenz, acrobat; Ruth Nelson, rider of rearing, high-jumping horses; the Three Chamberlys, low casting stars, and many other features are offered this year by Cole Brothers.

The performances, starting at 2:15 and 8 p. m. open with a spectacle entitled, "The Clown is King."

American Parents Losing Control Over Children, Clark Says

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 22—Reporting more than 100,000 juveniles were convicted of crimes last year, Attorney General Tom C. Clark asserts American parents have to a certain extent "lost our leadership and control over our children."

In an address at the closing session of the national conference on Catholic Youth work last night, Clark declared, "family unity and solidarity seem to have disintegrated," and added that families have become "institutionalized, with many homes becoming boarding houses where parents and children meet only at meals."

The attorney general asserted many parents dodge their responsibilities as primary educators of their children, and blames schools and teachers for the "youth failure."

"We must do all we can to reform the more than 100,000 juveniles who were convicted of crime last year," he continued. "We must use all of the techniques and facilities available to bring them back into the field of good citizenship."

The program of reformation, he said, should include recognition of children "for their own importance," plus adequate plans to promote youths' educational, moral, social and economic welfare.

"Under the influence of parental indifference and diverse outside attractions, we have to a certain extent lost our leadership and control over our children," he declared.

New Mother

WE can realize our debt to penicillin only when we understand the great changes it has made in the treatment of many ailments, giving us a quick and reliable cure in place of treatments which were slow, painful and often uncertain.

For instance, a new mother sometimes develops a condition known as acute mastitis or inflammation of the breast.

This is a most painful condition, making the breast red, tender and swollen. Fever—often high fever—adds to the mother's distress. Before the use of penicillin, there was nothing to be done but to wait for the infection to come to a head. This was encouraged by the use of heat. Then the breast was cut open and the infected material drained out.

Since penicillin attacks the staphylococcus germs which usually cause this disorder, these things are no longer necessary.

Drs. Mary D. Taylor and Stanley Way of England used penicillin in treating 10 patients with acute mastitis. The penicillin was given by injection into a muscle every three hours.

In addition to overcoming the infection, it is also necessary in the treatment to keep the breasts empty. They did this in most cases by allowing the baby to nurse. If the baby's nursing caused too much discomfort to the mother, they discontinued the nursing and gave a small dose of stilbestrol, a preparation which helps to decrease the breast milk supply for the time being. Breast feeding was continued in all cases except one, however, and in this case it was stopped only because the baby did not accompany her mother to the hospital.

None of the infants became infected as a result of the continued breast feeding. There was no recurrence of the infection after treatment.

As a result of this treatment all of the patients were cured within seven days and six of the ten within three days. In only one instance did pus formation develop and even in this case it was not necessary to cut open the breast. However, the infected material was drawn out using a needle and hypodermic syringe.

It would appear, then, that treatment of acute mastitis or breast infection with penicillin is easily carried out and brings about a prompt cure in practically all cases. Of course the earlier treatment is started and the more thoroughly it is employed, the better will be the results.

TWO MEN INJURED AS AUTOS COLLIDE

Collision Happens at Intersection of County Highway.

William Cundiff and Todd McGowan of near Waldo suffered cuts and bruises when the automobile which Cundiff was driving and in which McGowan was a passenger was struck by an auto driven by Robert Buckley of near Marion at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday at the intersection of the Smeltzer and Marion-Cardington roads, the sheriff's office reported.

According to sheriff's deputies, the Cundiff vehicle with a small trailer attached was headed east. Buckley approached from the north. The Cundiff auto continued across the intersection and turned over in the ditch. The force of the impact forced the Buckley car on top of the trailer, deputies said.

Buckley escaped without injuries. Both automobiles and the trailer were demolished. There are no traffic signs at the intersections, officers said.

SAYS U.S. HAS LOST FAITH IN EDUCATION

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 22—Americans "seem to have lost faith in education," says Bishop Charles W. Brashares of the Iowa Methodist conference.

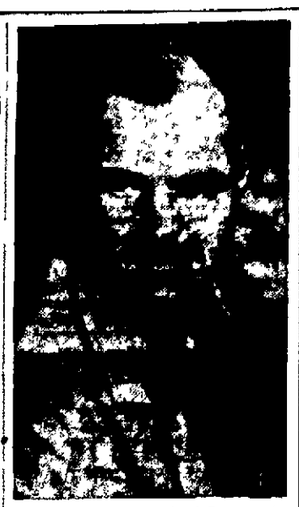
Bishop Brashares, former pastor of Grace Methodist church in Dayton, O., declared in an address at the annual session of the Ohio conference of the Methodist church here last night:

"We have defeated the armies of Fascism and Nazism but those ideologies will go on their conquering way until men have been taught something better. Armies are merely ideas on the march.

"We used to say that the pen was mightier than the sword but now we seem to have lost faith in education. We are not exporting great numbers of school teachers to conquered countries as we did years ago to the Philippines.

"And here in the United States we spend three times as much for cosmetics as we do for public education . . ."

At its business session late yesterday, the Ohio conference readmitted Rev. Homer D. Ferris of Van Wert, who retired from the ministry for a time, and voted to full membership in the conference 13 young men who will be ordained here Sunday afternoon by Bishop H. Lester Smith, conference prelate.



GERM WAR REPORT. President of the American Association of Scientific Workers, Dr. Maurice B. Visscher announces in Chicago the publication of a 10,000-word technical summary of all that was known about the potentialities of bacterial warfare up to 1942. Dr. Visscher declares the U. S. "might be vulnerable" to bacterial warfare because of geographical isolation.

ATOMIC EXPOSITION OPENS IN CLEVELAND

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 22 — The second annual mid-America exposition, featuring the peacetime role of atomic energy, opens in Cleveland's public hall today.

The signal which will throw open the exposition to the public will be flashed by Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate to the United Nations, who will press a button in his office in the Empire State building in New York City.

The electrical impulse, racing over a special Western Union wire to Cleveland, will start an atom-splitting machine in the atomic energy exhibit, ignite and trip a magnesium-treated ribbon at the entrance to public hall and at the speaker's table in Hotel Carter.

The civic luncheon at the hotel features addresses on atomic energy by Dr. John R. Dunning, science director of Columbia university, and Albert I. Baker, vice president of the Kellex Corp., New York.

Westinghouse scientists have prepared for exhibit an atomic ray detector that can count particles cast off by exploding atoms at the rate of 100,000 each second.

Dr. Fritz-Hugh Marshall and Dr. John W. Coltman of the Westinghouse research laboratories in Pittsburgh developed the new detector and declare that it counts particles cast off by exploding atoms at a rate 50 times more than the standard Geiger counter records.

BUCYRUS AIRPORT GETS TWO EQUIPMENT ITEMS

New Building, Automatic Pilot Control Box Added.

BUCYRUS, May 22—Bucyrus airport came into possession of two new items during the last week, both of which will be a large factor in lifting the level of the local port comparable to other ports of its size in Ohio. The new equipment is an A-5 Army Air corps automatic pilot control box which was a gift from John Q. Shunk, retired industrialist and philanthropist, and a new administration building, opened for the first last week.

The administration building replaced the old hangar-office rooms at the south end of the field. Work on the building was started last July. The building is 60 by 25 feet and houses a workshop, display cases, a fireplace and a "snack bar" is to be added later, according to Maurice Giffin, airport manager.

Sixteen planes are now housed in the local port.

Decoration Day Picnic

PICNIC FARE . . . Baked lima beans, a big cake . . .

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Decoration Day is the first really official picnic day, though of course by this time the rushers-of-the-season have picknicked frequently.

In case Decoration Day should be on the chilly side this year, I suggest that you plan a picnic with at least one hot dish. You can make this dish at home and carry it to the picnic if you aren't going too far away. An oven-proof glass dish will keep food hot for a remarkably long time, especially if you put the top on it and wrap it up well for the trip in your picnic basket.

Baked Lima Beans

2 cups dried lima beans, 1 quart water, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 4 tablespoons fat, ¼ cup molasses, ½ cup grated cheese, 1 cup tomato juice, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 6 onion slices, 5 green pepper strips.

Wash and look over lima beans, rejecting poor ones. Soak beans overnight in a quart of water. Add salt to beans and cook for one hour in the same water in which they were soaked. Remove from heat, drain, and stir into beans the mustard, fat, molasses, cheese, tomato juice and chopped green pepper. Arrange onion slices and green pepper strips on top of beans. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for about an hour in a heat-resistant glass casserole dish.

With that dish you can serve sliced meat sandwiches if you want to, though they really aren't needed. A green salad is a fine addition, and some fruit to eat from the hand. Some families just have to have a sweet. Bake them a cake, like the one below, and take it to the picnic in its pan. Again, a heat-resistant glass one is good, because it looks trim and neat to take to the picnic.

Graham Cracker Picnic Cake

Cake: ½ cup shortening, ¾ cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 2 eggs, ½ cup graham cracker crumbs, 1½ cups sifted flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk.

Cream shortening and beat in sugar gradually. Beat in vanilla. Add two eggs, one at a time, beating well. Stir in graham cracker crumbs. Add 1½ cups flour, baking powder and salt, sifted together, alternately with milk. Pour batter into a well greased heat-resistant glass square cake dish—eight inch size. Bake in 350 degree oven for about 40 minutes.

Topping: 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 egg, 16 walnut meats.

Melt butter in saucepan. Add brown sugar, flour and egg, well beaten. Mix well. Cook over low direct heat about six to eight minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and pour over top of cake. Arrange walnut meats on topping. Return cake to 350 degree over for about five to seven minutes or until topping is firm.

GALION CITY COUNCIL TO HIRE POWER ENGINEERS

Police, Firemen Query Group on Recent Pay Demands.

GALION, May 22—A step further toward the solution of Galion's need for more electric power to operate industries of the city was taken by City council Tuesday when an emergency ordinance was passed to hire either a consulting engineer or a firm of engineers for the purpose of making a survey of the needs of the Galion Municipal Light and Power plant. The survey is to begin at the earliest possible date and be completed not later than July 15, 1947. The ordinance appropriates $5,000 for this work.

Patrolman Charles Weber and Fireman John Durtschi, chairmen of the police and fire departments, respectively, asked council why action had not been taken on the recent request for $30-a-month salary raises for employes of both departments. This resulted with agreement by council that the finance committee will meet with representatives of police and fire departments Thursday evening.

The transfer of $300 to the sewage disposal and maintenance funds, and $1,784.52 to another fund to pay the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company for emergency repairs to the Sewage Disposal Digestor, were authorized by council. Mayor William Amann's report of collections for the past month totaled $829.70

Indians May Forfeit Game Over Stadium Racing Issue

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 22—President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians will decide today whether he will transfer tomorrow's scheduled game with the St. Louis Browns to League park from Municipal stadium, which has been transformed into a quagmire by construction work on a midget auto racing track encircling the playing field.

Confronted with a warning from American league President William Harridge that the game would be forfeited to the Browns if the Indians were unable to provide a suitable playing field, Veeck said he might switch the game to the Indians' former home because "we're in the thick of the pennant race now and we can't afford to lose a game on a forfeit that we've got a chance to win."

May Go To Court

Veeck intimated he might go to court if the game is transferred. He said a crowd of approximately 50,000 was expected for the Tribe's first night game of the season, and that the club would lose money by switching to a day game at League park, which seats approximately 28,000 and is not equipped with lights.

"Somebody is going to owe us that difference," Veeck said. "I don't know just how we can collect, but we certainly can try."

Veeck has strongly opposed midget auto racing in the Stadium ever since it was first proposed.

"I was afraid of this a long time ago, but I'm only a tenant and apparently not a good one," he said. "Nobody would treat a good tenant like this. Our agreement with the city was for the use of a suitable ball park."

Mayor Blames Rain

Mayor Thomas A. Burk issued a statement in which he said:

"During the last 10 days, since the Indians left Cleveland there has been only one day without rain. The work being done at the Stadium was delayed and hampered by this difficult circumstance. * * *

"I have no desire to engage in a controversy with the Cleveland baseball club and I want the ball club and the public to know that my sole interest is the interest of the public and that I want to protect the citizen and taxpayer who own and are still paying for the Cleveland Municipal Stadium."

No Tickets Printed

No tickets have been printed for League Park and Veeck could only promise the public to make the best possible seating arrangements there for ticket holders.

Representatives of the contractors building the track for the midget auto race promoters declared they could finish the job if no rain falls today but Veeck and the Indians' groundkeeper, Emil Bossard, maintained it would be impossible to get the playing surface ready.

Earl J. Hilligan, manager of American league's service bureau, ordered to Cleveland by Harridge to survey the Stadium, also did not believe it would be possible to play the game at the huge lakefront orchard.

Tom Connolly, American league umpires' chief of staff, will be permitted to decide, with Hilligan, whether the game will be transferred to League Park, Veeck said.

Rained-Out Cubs Take To Road Against Dayton

This look-quick-to-see-sunlight weather has affected the Cubs again. Their scheduled twin bill with Lima last night was rained out. The rest of the Ohio State league was also inactive last night.

The Bruins start on a swing to the south now and will burst forth into Dayton for a game tonight. Monday they will be back here to battle Zanesville on their home soil.

HARDING BOOSTER CLUB SETS MEETING

Harding Booster's club will hold its first meeting, since its organization early this year, in the courtroom at the county courthouse Wednesday, May 28, at 8 p. m.

A constitution for the club will be presented for consideration of the members.

Discussion will be thrown open to suggestions of projects the club should back.

The club announced it would seek a section of Harding stadium set off in reserved seats. The plan is still being considered by both members of the club and the high school.

Shotton Beats Lippy's Record For Changing Dodger Chuckers

By The Associated Press

Last year Leo Durocher set a record for changing chuckers when he used 380 pitchers in 157 games while managing the Dodgers to second place in the National pennant race. That was an average of slightly less than 2½ pitchers per game.

But now mild-mannered, conservative Burt Shotton holds the Dodger reins and outdoes Durocher in the art of juggling hurlers.

In the Dodgers' 28 games to date, of which incidentally they have won 15, Shotton has used 81 pitchers, an average of 2.89 per game. Only five times have Brooklyn hurlers gone the route.

Shotton practically gave the pitching staff a vacation yesterday when he called upon only two hurlers to subdue the submerged St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in 10 innings. Lefthander Joe Hatten opened up for Brooklyn and was replaced by Fireman Hugh Casey, who went on to gain his third victory of the season.

Cookie Lavagetto, veteran Dodger third sacker, broke up the game with a run-scoring single in the 10th off starting and losing pitcher Harry (The Cat) Brecheen.

The Chicago Cubs recaptured first place by shading the Philadelphia Phils 2-1 in Wrigley Field. It marked the Cubs' fifth straight win over Philadelphia, all by one run.

Frank Shea, rookie righthander of the New York Yankees, gained his first major league shutout and his fourth triumph by outpitching the mighty lefty, Hal Newhouser, of the Detroit Tigers 5-0 before 49,844 Yankee Stadium fans in a night game.

Handcuffed for seven innings, the Philadelphia Athletics came to life in the eighth with a five-run rally against rookie Pete Gebrian and two successors to defeat the Chicago White Sox 5-2.

Bobo Newsome gained his first win of the season and his 195th of his big league career when he pitched the Washington Senators to a 7-3 night game victory over the St. Louis Browns.

The Boston Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates were not scheduled while the only day game in the American league between Cleveland and the Red Sox at Boston was postponed by rain. Rain also washed out the scheduled game between the New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds at Cincinnati.

Deceptive Play Deceives Coach

Associated Press Newsfeatures

TACOMA, Wash. — After an idle week, Coach Cliff Olson called his Pacific Lutheran college griders back to practice. He instructed his varsity to run an end-around against the seconds.

They ran it. Well, they ran something. Olson charged into the line where left end Bob Andrews was lying prone.

"Andrews," he roared, "hide the ball. Anyone could see you had the ball on that play. "You have to use deception."

"Yessir," said Andrews, "only I haven't got the ball. He's got it."

He pointed to a point 60 yards down the field where right end Paul Polillo had galloped unmolested with the pigskin.

"I've never seen that play before," Cliff commented afterward. "They worked it out themselves. The devil finds work for idle hands..."

Capabilities of Disabled Vets Termed Wasted

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., May 22 — More than 55 per cent of the nation's manufacturers should educate themselves "as to the capabilities of our wartime disabled veterans," National Commander Lloyd F. Oleson of the Disabled American Veterans declared today.

In a statement issued by DAV headquarters here, he said a survey of 1,000 plants employing 330,000 showed only 45 per cent of them employed handicapped former servicemen. They constitute two per cent of the pay roll in the industries in which they are employed, he added.

Oleson declared the survey proved disabled veterans to be excellent workers from a standpoint of attendance, efficiency and loyalty and "justified more widespread usage of job-matching programs."

"It only takes a few muscles to do any job," the national commander said, "and a job analysis program brings to the front a disabled veterans' capabilities rather than his disabilities."

Never Ignore An Itchy Scalp

Noted Hair and Scalp Practitioner Tells Why

Dr. C. S. Shiffer
Licensed by Ohio State Medical Board, (Economic Therapy)

Itchy scalp? Often harsh shampoos with alcohol, alkaline or acid ingredients are to blame. They irritate the scalp... often lead to serious scalp disorders.

Unlike ordinary shampoos, Dr. Shiffer's Special 101 Formula Shampoo was developed for use in professional treatment. Dr. Shiffer's Shampoo completely removes all dirt, dandruff and surface bacteria... yet is gentle enough for a baby's scalp. A few drops work up quickly into a rich lather in either hard or soft water. Rinses easily leaving the scalp feeling refreshingly clean... and free from itch. For additional protection between shampoos try Dr. Shiffer's Hair and Scalp Conditioner.

At all drug and department stores. Your money refunded by Dr. Shiffer if you are not satisfied.

Programs on the Air

Lassie, the M-G-M dog star, who starts a new radio series, "The Lassie Show," over ABC Sunday afternoon, June 8, will have to rehearse the programs just like any other actor. Lassie will actually do all the barking on the series, and Rudd Weatherwax, her trainer, wants to be sure that she doesn't bark out of turn; hence the rehearsals.

• • •

Hal "Great Gildersleeve" Peary is the latest radio comedian to give vaudeville a whirl. He'll open at the Golden Gate theater, San Francisco, on June 11 for a week's stand. Gildy will supply the entire show and will use part of his NBC kilocycle routine in his act.

• • •

Jimmy Durante has signed a new 52-week contract with his current sponsor. When Durante, who had been sought by other sponsors, returns in the fall without Garry Moore, the series will be heard on NBC Friday nights instead of CBS and the Schnozz will use guest stars. . . . "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," the James Thurber story which starred Danny Kaye on the screen, is heading for radio as a regular series. Radio rights have just been sold to a west coast producer. . . . Lena, the maid on the "Fibber McGee and Molly" show, has left the cast after a short stay. Gene Carroll, who had the part, is said to be heading for Cleveland, his home town, to take a disk jockey job. . . . LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I KNEW very well why Mary felt ashamed to look at her husband, but it was my cue to profess ignorance.

"What in the world do you mean by that speech?" I demanded. "Look here! That is another kind of talk that isn't permitted."

"But you don't know what I did when he was here last night," she said shamefacedly, and I tried to make my face a blank so she would not guess that Noel, frightened out of his wits by her hysteria, had told me the thing she now was regretting so keenly.

"Will you feel better if you tell me?" I asked her, and she nodded.

"I'd like to get it out of my system," she said. "I—I asked Noel to take your manuscript out of your desk and let me hide it under my sheet, so that when I had fooled you all about taking the sedative, I could study my lines. The poor kid! He was shocked out of his seven senses, or is it five?"

"You certainly ought to be paddled," I told her with a smile. "But I'm going to postpone it; put you on probation. But let me tell you this. Noel has no emotion except anxiety for you. That's the reason why I want you to look your best and not let him guess there is anything wrong with you except overwrought nerves. You know how highly strung he is. If he should dream of some of the things you have said to me, he's extremely likely to go over the borderline himself. Now, I want to know this beyond a doubt. Will you play the game where Noel's concerned?"

What Will Noel Think?

"Of course I will," she said. "But—what will he think about these bars on the windows? Don't you suppose he'll smell two or three mices?"

"I shall be seriously annoyed with you, Mary," I said in my best school-ma'am manner, "if you again take that tone about those barred windows. I have explained the reason for them, told you that my father wished them on the windows of all our apartments as a precaution because of the espionage problem in which he and Olga are involved. They will be put on your father-in-law's apartment windows this morning. I imagine the men will be there before Noel comes down here. If they are not, it will be easy for you to give him the explanation I have given you. And please believe it yourself. Any other interpretation is sheer nonsense."

I waved a mental salute to ancient Sapphira as I spoke the words, and controlled a blush only by a mighty effort of will power when Mary shot a knowing glance at me.

Will Explain Everything

"I'll explain everything to Noel, as per schedule," she said, "and I'm a darned good explainer, if I do say it as shouldn't. But darling, sapient, puissant Auntie Madge—don't think I'm the original trusting ingenue! Don't mistake me, though. I'm believing the barred windows story, and the stork story, and Santa Claus, and I'll have my tongue torn out before I'll cast a single aspersion on the yarn.

"Now, how about getting on with the shower? And while we're at it, let's get something else straight. Don't make any excuses about helping me with my shower and dressing and eating, etc., etc. I know very well I'm not going to be by myself a single second until I'm over this particular hump, or am a 'demd, damp, unpleasant body,' a la Dickens's immortal Mr. Mantalini. And I don't blame you. If you were I, and I were you, I'd do the same thing. So come along, darling. I'm going to love you as a maid."

Mary was rattling along in her usual fashion, and if I had not conjugated her often unpredictable moods and tenses for so long, I would have been much encouraged by her chatter.

A Little Chill

But her understanding of my ruses, and her Dickens reference, offset her apparently cheerful cooperation, and there was a little chill at my heart as I helped her with her shower, and with her dressing in fresh night things again. When she was through "touching up" her face, and was back in bed again with a fetching bed jacket reflecting the flush on her cheeks, I looked at my wrist watch.

"Aunt Katherine will be here any minute," I said. "I'm going to wait for her advice before giving you anything to eat."

"I'm not a bit hungry," she declared, and my mental barometer descended still further. "But I am thirsty."
